

- protected from damage
- I All parts of systems under test must be under constant supervision with authority to shut off excessive pressure that may develop. No tests shall be run unless continuously attended.